We regret our inability to attend the Commencement exercises of the Easley High School. Thanks to the faculty of that flourishing school for an invitation to be present and read an essay for one of the young ladies. Prof. Lake and his school have our best wishes.

We are grateful to our friend "Trustee" for his timely words in reply to "Who," and to friend "Live and Let Live" for the following: "To pacify our fellow-sufferer about 'the Abbeville line' and to sustain the 'Trustee' at the other extreme border line of our County in his opinion, equity and circumstances demand that a middle man 'rise and mutiny.' Notwithstanding we can look from our post of duty upon the tewering church steeples of the city of Anderson, the Commissioner has not yet been to see us. Knowing that he is a hard worked man, we accepted the reason he published for not visiting all the schools. Nevertheless, we looked for him, and I dare say have been benefitted by the looking; we expect him to come yet, and will be greatly disappointed if we are not benefitted by the coming."

ORIGINAL SPEECHES

"writing makes an exact man," our boys "writing makes an exact man," our boys and young men should be required to do more of it. The delivery of a boy's first original speech may be the turning point oldest town in the United States by more in his life-the effort may shake him up, it may arouse some dormant powers with which he is unacquainted. If it does not open to him a new world, or greatly strengthen his ambition, the work will afford a drill exercise that will make him more exact and more natural in his expressions. Some teachers require original speeches at least twice a month; others require compositions once a week Our own opinion is that they can not be required too often. Some one has said that it were well for a student to write something every day. The extensive use of the black-board in recitations nowadays, does away, in a measure, with the development of the stream of the surrender at Yorktown, the the demand for very frequent original productions. Facility of expression and the correct use of words are acquired in the constant use of the black board.

CORRECT SPEECH.

Young man, you do not speak correctly. Why is it? what is the matter? where iles the difficulty? You know better. You have studied grammar. You have heard cultivated persons talk. How then is it that you give yourself up to coarseness, to vulgarisms, to an ugly as of no importance: learn to think purely, and think well; learn to speak purely, and think well; learn to speak such payments. The same bank president refused outright, a few days ago, to ch, the manner, the wall are the alphabet by which we spell character. Young man, you are making your character—how will it look when one can spell it out distinctly? Let those different letters be clear and distinct and beautiful. We do not know but that Thorcan was right when he said:

"We are all sculptors and painters, and our material is our own flesh, and blood, our material is our own flesh, and our ma and bones. Any nobleness begins at once to refine a man's features; any meanness or sensuality, to imbrute

THE ANDERSON MILITARY SCHOOL.

Tc-day, from our window, we can see the Cadets from the Anderson Military School walking the streets and chatting with all the vivacity of their boyish natures. How happy they look! How jolly! How bright! Commencement exercises are over, and the beautiful flowers, their trophies, have been taken to their rooms and pressed ready to be taken home to mother and sister or hidden away to be kept as the most precious treasure of life. Fat we did not take up our pen for the purpose of writing to the boys. Though we feel just now like filling this entire column with words of encouragement and warning to the boys, we desist, leaving the good impressions made by Gen. Capers' speech and the magnetism of his presence unmolested.

Our province is to deal with the publie schools of the County, but may we not be excused for a few words in commendation of the Anderson Military School?

It seems to us that Anderson is peculiarly blessed. Above every thing, every town ought to have a first class male school. This Anderson has. As to the

Are we not rather bound to support by our patronage and encouragement a students in this school, and a large number of them ought to be frem the County. The free schools and subscription schools scattered all over the County ought to be feeders for this central school. Many boys, by hard work and economy, could go to this school, and walk home every Friday night, while to go off to Columbia, or Greenville, or Spartanburg would perhaps be impossible. Besides, there is no sense in sending a boy off to college to be put in the preparatory department and prepared for the regular college course. Let him be prepared here at Anderson for a useful career in life or a successful college course. June 4, 1885.

IS FRIDAY AN UNLUCKY DAY!

A journal answers this question in the following satisfactory manner:

On Friday, August 21, 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed on his great voyage of discovery. On Friday, October 12, 1492, he first discovered land. On Friday, January 4, 1493, he sailed on his return to Spain, which, if he had not teached in safety, the happy result would never have been known which led to the settlement on this vast continent. On Friday, March 15, 1493, he arrived at Palos in safety. On Friday, November 22, 1493, he arrived at Hispaniola, on his second covered at Hispaniola, on his second voyage to America. On Fri-day, June 13, 1494, he, though unknown to himself, discovered the continent of We like the idea of requiring young men to write and deliver speeches. On Friday, November 10, 1620, the May-flower, with the Pilgrims, made the harbor of Provincetown; and on the same day they signed that august compact, the forerunner of our present glorious constitution. On Fri day, December 23, 1620, the Pilgrims made their final landing at Plymouth Rock. On Friday, February 22, 1732, George Washington, the father of Amer-ican freedom, was born. On Friday, June 16, Bunker Hill was seized and fortified. On Friday, October 7, 1777, the surrender of Saratoga was made, which had such power and influence in induccrowning glory of the American arms, occurred. On Friday, July 7, 1776, the motion in Congress was made by John Adams, seconded by Richard Henry Lee, that the United States colonies were, and of right ought to be, free and independent. Thus, by numerous examples, we see that, however it may be with foreign nations, Americans need never dread to begin on Friday any undertak-ing, however momentous it may be."

was groping my way over the tops of the cars very cautiously-for it was dangerous work, on account of the darkness, for even an experienced brakeman while pening to throw the light of my lantern down between two cars, I saw a dark mass of comething against the end of one of them. I stopped to look closer, and swinging my lantern between the cars saw it was some poor fellow stealing a ride. He had his hat pulled down over his face, and, more asleep than awake, was keeping in an upright position by clinging to the steps used for getting up on the car. The light I had thrown about him and the noise I had made roused him up. When he saw he had been discovered he put the best possible face on the matter and expressed his determination to stay on the train until we reached the end of the route. I told him that he could not do this, and we toon got into an angry dispute. He then climbed upon the car, and as he did so I moved to the other end. In this position we continued our war of words, he, meanwhile, standing very close to the end of the car. I soon concluded to leave him and find out of the conductor what should be done. I did not like his impudence and knew that somehow we

As I was about to move away the train gave a lurch as she struck an imperfect rail, which almost threw me off my feet. At the same time I saw my unwelcome passenger make a wild grasp in the air, as his body swayed backward with the shock through which it had been so hard for me to keep my position on the car, and as dimly as I could see his face the expression of horror and fright was one of the most painful sights I ever saw; then he uttered a wild shrick, and half swinging around on one foot upon which he was trying to balance himself, he fell readlong out of sight between the cars. It was not a manly thing to do, I am aware; but I fainted on top of the car. It must have been about half an hour afterward, for it was by this time daylight, when I came to and began to realize what had happened. As soon as possible I got back to the caboose and letailed to the conductor what had occurred. By this time we were ten or welve miles from the scene of the a ci-

"We're running wild, and if we go back and pick up the remains of that fellow it'll take an hour. The only thing I can see that we can do is to go on to the next station and send for orders."

This we did and got permission from headquarters to run back.

The train had to back down, of course, and when we came within a couple of miles of the point near which we sup-posed we would find at least a portion of our man, the train slackened its speed and the conductor and myself began to keep a careful watch along the track.
Presently from a clump of blackberry

J. W. Bowen, proprietor of the Methy (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "Ayer's Hanvion is a most excellent preparation for the set. I speak of it from my own experience, tuse promotes the growth of new half, set makes it glossy and soft. The vices it is a sure cure for dandruff. Not with a sure cure for dandruff. Not within a functional control of the preparation err false to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRDAIRN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Fainly" of Setting Vocalists, writes from Boston, Man., Fai. 1880: "Ever since my hair began to great very evidence of the change which feeting the procureth, I have used Ayers Haviton, and so have been able to make an appearance of youthfulness—a latting considerable consequence to minister, entering the consequence of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from it En St., Charicatoun, Mass., April 14, 1823, 1871. "Two years ago about two-thirds of year tame off. It thinned very rapidly, and the falling stopped and a new grown to the falling stopped and a new grown commenced, and in about a month my less was completely covered with short her, it has continued to grow, and is now as good a before it fell. I regularly used but one both of the Vision, but now use it occasionally a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonial to the officacy of Aven's Hair vices, heeds but a trial to convince the most step.
